

Iron County Register

E. D. AKE, Editor.

VOLUME XXVI. NUMBER 28.
IRONTON, MO., JANUARY 12, 1893.

ONLY fifty-one days more of the Harrison administration.

Is it then so much more reprehensible to be an office-seeker after than before an election?

It is now said that Daniel S. Lamont, of New York, Mr. Cleveland's former private secretary will be Secretary of the Navy after March 4th.

BLAINE, it is again said, is dying. Not an American but wishes that he might for many years disappoint the fears of his physicians, family and friends.

If there is wisdom in a multitude of counsel, then the new road law which it is the purpose of the Missouri Legislature to enact ought to closely approach perfection.

The country paper laughs with ghoulish glee at the weird and ghastly woe, ah me! of all the dailies proud the land that fill, which gulped that fake from Bakersville!

The inauguration of Gov. Stone Monday was a very quiet and unpretentious affair. The Governor is said to be bitterly opposed to the display generally made on like occasions.

The contest over the Senatorship in Kansas is still unsettled. It may be, after all, that Jerry Simpson will prove the winner; well, in such event, his party could go farther and fare worse.

It is stated that Representative Eaton of Washington county intends introducing a bill for the regulation of express charges. There is certainly room for some wholesome legislation in this respect.

The Democratic caucus among the Democratic members of the Legislature treated the editors fairly well. Thos. W. Mabrey of the Doniphan Prospect-News was chosen Speaker and John W. Jacks of the Montgomery Standard, Chief Clerk.

The indications now are that the Democrats will have control of the next Senate, and, if such proves the case, some wholesome and satisfactory legislation may be expected. The first act should be the repeal of the infamous McKinley bill.

The Downing High License is a good law and gives general satisfaction. Don't think it, nor replace it, with a new venture, Messrs. Legislators. Let cranks air their millennial panaceas through the newspapers, but not in the statutes at the expense of the State.

This roster stands for Southeast Missouri, whose gallant son, Thomas W. Mabrey, has been chosen to preside over the deliberations of the Lower House of the Legislature. It is an honor deserved alike by the man and the section.

FARMINGTON Times: "It is reported that Senator Jasper N. Burks has threatened to reverse his position on the weekly pay bill, and support a measure of that character, for the purpose of getting even with the corporations for not helping him in his aspirations to go to Congress."

The Republic wants the legislature to repeal the special Primary Election law relating to cities of 300,000 inhabitants and over. With that we of the country have no personal concern; but the general statute concerning primary elections is a good law, and a necessary one, and ought not be meddled with.

It is said that the incoming administration intends to do what it can to discountenance the shoddy aristocracy that has obtained at Washington during the Republican administrations of the past. The desire is to return to the days of Jeffersonian simplicity and domestic economy, so that a poor man may hold a cabinet position as well as a millionaire. It is a change that would be hailed with delight by all the people.

SOME—if not all—of the city papers continue to harp upon the alleged deluge of place-hunters under the incoming administration. It is true the office-seeker, like the poor, we have always with us; but, to our notion, he is no more numerous now than he has been for all these many years. And if he were, newspaper howling would not abate him. Therefore, let him work out his destiny, unhampered, unannoyed, and, where deprecated, unannounced.

A copy of the Gazette, printed at "St. Louis, Louisiana," in 1808, was found in Kansas City a few days ago. It was the third issue of probably the first paper published west of the Mississippi. It is a four-page paper, three ten-inch columns to a page. The news in it from London, Paris, Boston, Norfolk, Philadelphia, and other cities, is all dated one to three months before the date of the paper itself. The sentiment running through the local news is very anti-British.

QUITE a number of the publishers of Southeast Missouri met at Charleston last Thursday for the purpose of organizing a Southeast Missouri Press Association. The following permanent organization was effected: President, M. G. Gressam; Vice-President, J. J. Lewis; Secretary, S. G. Tetwiler, and Treasurer, Tom Allen. Constitution and by-laws were discussed. The Association adjourned to meet again at Dexter on February 16 and 17, when a large attendance is expected. A programme was prepared for the next meeting, and persons expected to attend will be notified by the Secretary.

IRON county is ready to furnish, as usual, patriots for all the government offices which this half of the State will need under the new administration. She has, in her favor, the right of succession, and her citizens are not too modest to assert their rights. In dividing up the offices, they have agreed that Mr. Edgar shall have the Marshalship, as successor to Judge Emerson of Iron county, who held that position under Cleveland's former administration. We presume the rest of us have a right to look on and admire.—Hillsboro Democrat.

The foregoing comes from Jefferson county, whose prominent citizens Iron county has time and again supported in conventions and at the polls. How many men from this county has Jefferson done the same for? We defy the Democrat to point to a single instance in the past twenty years. The spirit shown by our contemporary is that Iron county is all right when she helps Jefferson county statesmen in their aspirations; otherwise she is all wrong.

THERE is a rush of gold hunters to the new diggings in the San Juan country, Colorado. Claims have been staked out on the San Juan River for seventy-five miles from its mouth, and for twenty-five miles up the Colorado River. Men are pouring in from all the adjoining regions, and from Utah and Arizona. They are staking claims over each other, and lively trouble is looked for. Living is enormously high. Supplies cannot be obtained anywhere in the vicinity; those persons who brought supplies won't sell and those who didn't are suffering. Few, if any, took tents, there is no material at hand with which to build houses, and the prospectors are sleeping under ledges of rocks and where-ever a little shelter can be found. Some are making money now, a few gaining as much as $15 a day panning out dirt, but much of the ground can be worked only at great expense.—N. Y. Sun.
